

WiserDesigns.com's Holiday Lights of Louisville 'Sites to See'

If you enjoy fascinating holiday light displays, then the list below should help guide you to the best holiday light viewing in the Louisville, Kentucky metro area.

(Note: at the time of this writing, these holiday light decorations exist – but, unannounced changes can occur if a family relocates or decides to no longer decorate).

Adams Run house: This Louisville family goes all out with colorful displays featuring a roller coaster, Ferris Wheel, penguins, ice skaters, etc. Directions: Take the Snyder Freeway then exit south onto Beulah Church Road less than a half mile, turn left into the Adam Run neighborhood. Turn at the first left on Adams Run Court. You can't miss the display at 8913 Adams Run Court.

Blackburn house: If Clark Griswold lived in Louisville, this would be his home.

You name it, it is displayed in this eccentric Holiday showcase.

Directions: from I-71, exit south onto Zorn Avenue. Travel up Zorn hill, pass Brownsboro Road intersection (Zorn changes name to Hillcrest past the Brownsboro intersection). Keep going straight to the next stoplight. Turn left onto Frankfort Avenue, go pass Water Company reservoir, then pass Claremont Avenue on the left, then Blackburn Avenue is the next street on the left. Turn left onto Blackburn. Follow Blackburn for about two blocks, down the hill. You cannot miss this festive house on the right.

Alice Kay Drive: a long time Louisville favorite, all the families on this street decorate to the max. Directions: from the Watterson Expressway, exit south onto Taylor Boulevard, then drive several stoplights to Bluegrass Avenue, turn right onto Bluegrass, go a few blocks to Hazelwood Avenue, turn left. Hazelwood intersects with Manslick Road. Turn left at this intersection onto Manslick Road. Go about three blocks and Alice Kay Drive is on the right. The actual displays start about a block or so into Alice Kay Drive.

Scroll all the way down to view more decorative holiday light displays!

Steve Wiser, AIA

WiserAIA@Hotmail.com www.WiserDesigns.com

WiserDesigns.com's Holiday Lights of Louisville 'Sites to See'

Park Ridge neighborhood:

A must see. Beautiful lights combined with hilly terrain overlooking the city is a sight to behold.

Directions: Exit the Watterson Expressway onto southbound Southern Parkway. Drive for about two miles along Southern Parkway. You will see some nice light displays along the parkway. Where Southern Parkway terminates at Iroquois Park, turn left onto New Cut Road. Keep on

New Cut to Palaka Road, about one mile. Turn right onto Palaka Road. Drive to the intersection with Manslick Road and turn left. Drive about a half mile. Do NOT turn at the first 'brick' entry gate. Go to the next 'stone' gate Park Ridge neighborhood entrance, which will be brightly decorated. Turn right here onto Parkridge Parkway. Drive throughout this scenic area. Find the house display that is synchronized with the holiday music. Roll down your car windows!

Westwood Farms Neighborhood: Several homes in this charming suburban neighborhood light-up for the holidays.

Directions: From I-64, exit southbound on Hurstbourne Parkway. Keep on Hurstbourne past Taylorsville Road. After you pass under the railroad bridge, take a right onto Six Mile Lane. Westwood Farms neighborhood should be the third street on the left (there is a sign and the lighted houses should be glowing like a beacon!) If you cross over the railroad tracks, you've gone too far!

Scroll Down for more light displays!

Steve Wiser, AIA

WiserAIA@Hotmail.com www.WiserDesigns.com

WiserDesigns.com's Holiday Lights of Louisville 'Sites to See'

Ashland & Beaver houses: two competing light displays that bring a smile.

Directions: Ashland Avenue is off Taylor Boulevard, at the Watterson Expressway. The house display is easily found on Ashland. Beaver Street intersects with Ashland. You cannot miss the decorated house on this street!

Mega Cavern: a former underground stone quarry, this 'cave' has been transformed into a festive light display called "Lights Under Louisville" Directions: from the Watterson Expressway, exit north onto Poplar Level Road. Go a few blocks and turn right at Taylor Avenue. There is a Wendy's Restaurant on the corner. Stop here first to see if they have any discount coupons. There is a fee charged to drive thru 'mega cavern'. Keep onto Taylor Avenue to the entrance. www.LouisvilleMegaCavern.com

Additional holiday displays can be found at the following locations:

- City of Louisville holiday display at Jefferson Square, Sixth & Jefferson St.
- 5100 block of Sunshine Drive
- 7000 block of John Paul Lane
- Ashfield Lane south of Lowe Road

If you know of any additional spectacular holiday decorations in the metro Louisville area, email the address to WiserAIA@Hotmail.com

Scroll down for two more house displays!

Steve Wiser, AIA

WiserAIA@Hotmail.com www.WiserDesigns.com

WiserDesigns.com's Holiday Lights
of Louisville 'Sites to See'

Above: House decorated in Westwood Farms neighborhood

Below: House in Audubon Park neighborhood, which has many nice house displays

Steve Wiser, AIA
WiserAIA@Hotmail.com www.WiserDesigns.com

WiserDesigns.com's Holiday Lights
of Louisville 'Sites to See'

Above: 8913 Adams Run Court house, before it is dark.

Below: 8913 Adams Run Court house at dark

Steve Wiser, AIA
WiserAIA@Hotmail.com www.WiserDesigns.com

WiserDesigns.com's Holiday Lights
of Louisville 'Sites to See'

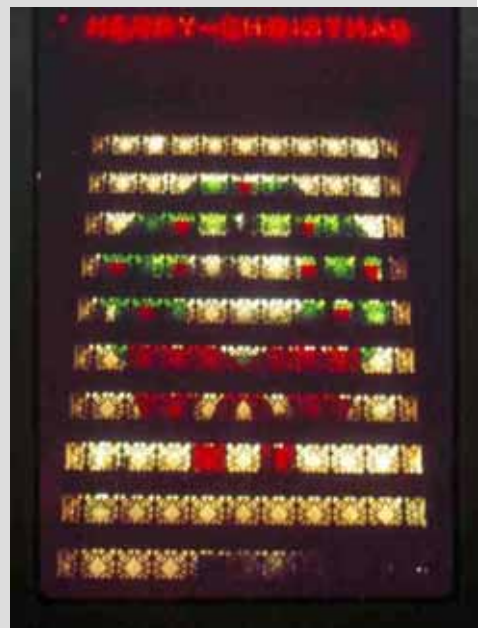

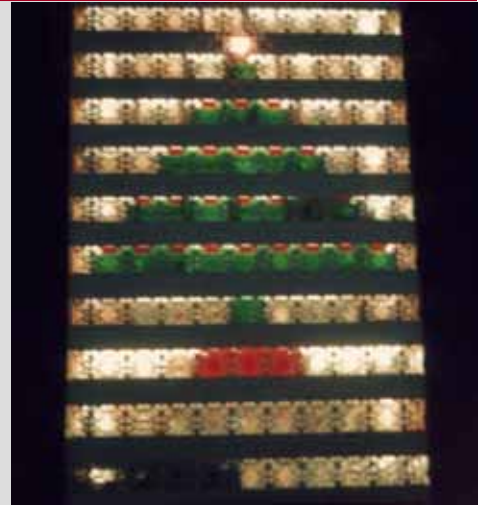

8913 Adams Run Court house at dark.

Steve Wiser, AIA
WiserAIA@Hotmail.com www.WiserDesigns.com

WiserDesigns.com's Holiday Lights of Louisville 'Sites to See'

Above and Right: Before it was called the "Kaden Tower", this building was known as the Lincoln Life and Insurance Building.

And, each Christmas it would be decorated in this manner during the 1970s

Left: This house is located in Cincinnati, in the Clifton neighborhood there. It was decorated during the 1970s.

It is not known if this house is still decorated in this manner.

Steve Wiser, AIA

WiserAIA@Hotmail.com www.WiserDesigns.com