On Saturday, April 17th, 2010, we went to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in the afternoon.

Of note: this museum is actually 'free' to attend and a donation of $20 is only 'requested'. Thus, if you wish, you can donate less than $20 and still enter. (An insider New Yorker tip.)

The Met is a phenomenal museum where you spend all day and still not see it all. We stayed for about two hours and saw the Egyptian exhibits, armor exhibit, and modern art display.

All the galleries were interesting to view, with plenty of daylight and artwork
